REPORT OF FIRE ENGINEERS

We hereby submit our annual report for the year 1928:

It is with regret that we have to report the past year as a very disastrous one in regard to fire losses, there having been three total losses. Two of the fires were outside of protection and the one under protection was in such a condition when discovered, that a much better equipt department could not have done better, so, we do not think the heavy loss was caused by the inefficiency of the town department. The other property that was endangered was taken care of by the department with small loss.

After testing the department hose that had been in service many years, we found much of it unsafe to use, and 2000 feet of new hose was bought. We would recommend that 500 feet more of rubber lined hose be bought for this department and 500 feet of linen hose for Georges Mills.

Fire Losses

	Total Ins.	Ins. Paid
A. C. Slade	$17,000	$112.00
E. C. Graves	3,300	35.00

Dulings	4,000	total
School Building	22,500	total
G. A. Paul	1,800	total
Gamsby Brothers	2,000	24.00

The department has answered six bell and nine still alarms during the year.

Respectfully submitted,

F. M. SARGENT,

D. R. PUTNEY,
H. B. SAWYER,

REPORT OF SUPERINTENDENT OF SCHOOLS

To the School Board and Citizens of Sunapee:

The passing of the old, over-crowded Central School and the coming of the New Central School for Sunapee marks another upward step in the Educational ladder of progress for Sunapee. When we visit great Cathedrals we look upon structures which are man's highest conception of an ideal expressed in a building. They inspire us and we catch some of the vision of the architect. Cathedrals are the nearest earthly approach that man can build with materials of his idea of heaven. Since they stand as man's loftiest conception of an ideal, that is why they inspire us.

The old school at Sunapee, which burned on May 29, 1928, had served its purpose well until it became over-crowded and rooms were furnished on the top floor in spaces not intended for recitation rooms. The frame of the building was too light to support the load allotted to it.

The strength of the building depended largely on the top stays, which, when weakened by the fire, let the walls spread the floors dropping, smashing everything in the building.

Out of the catastrophe has arisen in an almost incredibly short time a new building which is a real credit to the progressive spirit of the town. The permanence of the new building impresses one at once.

We are living in a new era in school architecture. Our first schools were built upon house construction ideas which were adequate in lighting for homes but oft-times not for schools as they had wide dividers between the windows, which threw heavy, ugly shadows across the school room, and too often required the teacher to stand facing windowed walls all day while teaching.

With a new era in school architecture there has also come a stimulated pride in the school edifice. A schoolhouse is no longer a crude creation of wood, brick, and stone with clumsy roofs and unsightly towers, but a structure which is simple, yet graceful, in exterior design and attractive and convenient in interior arrangements.

Among the various housings of a community, the modern school stands out as a dignified structure pleasing to the eye and expressive of the purpose it serves. The progressive citizen points with pride on occasion to the new schoolhouse as something that denotes the cultural progress of a community.

Urgent demands upon the educational necessity of our children caused us to move into the new building before it was entirely completed. It should not be forgotten, however, the importance of having fitting dedication exercises to open the new building. It will be some little time before the building is entirely complete.

There are not many occasions when the citizenship may gather under one roof to listen to the discussion of education. The annual graduation exercises afford such an occasion. A schoolhouse dedication is more rare and more momentous as far as the educational history of the community is concerned. It will happen only about once in a hundred years that Sunapee will have an opportunity to commemorate such an event. I am taking this space in this report that the occasion may have permanent record.

The thought observed is that this occasion must serve in arousing interest in the cause of education, stimulate town pride and local patriotism, and finally, emphasize the relation of the school to patriotic national life.

Education is not a local option as to whether we will have it or not. To what degree we will have it is a matter of local pride in Sunapee as is evident by the new building. What we do in any given situation in the state affects the whole state. The tone of Education in the state is raised whenever a community does as well by education as has been done at Sunapee. Every convenience has been provided as could reasonably well be expected, conveniently and efficiently arrayed and at a cost which has given the town good value for the money expended.

An inferior educational training may bring permanent injury. Now that we have a first quality building, we must ever be on guard to provide first class instructional service for the school. A highly efficient teaching force is not usually assembled in one year. It is best assembled by a selective process. Where we get a superior teacher, he or she should be retained rather than to make a change due to a few dollars. It often happens that beginning teachers get, let us say, $1,000.00 per year, whereas it would cost us $1,100.00 to keep a superior teacher for the second year. If we allow a superior teacher to go to save the hundred dollars and get a new teacher who is worth nothing to us through the year, it would have been infinitely better to have retained the former teacher for the hundred dollars as that would have been the difference between a real teacher and no teacher at all.

In recent years there is an increasing evidence that school administration is a business and subject to the laws of business. Today business is a symbol of quality; quality in the character of its products, quality in the calibre of its workers. We hear business executives tell of the lengths they go to secure these, how they specify betterments, enforce standards and evaluate quality. School officials have an equal concern for their products.

Merchants employing large groups can tell you what labor turnovers cost them. They can show you the expense of regaining a customer's interest lost through inferior service. Both items are expensive. They eat up profits. The business of school administration is as sensitive to these methods of investment as is every other business, only they are not measured in money but something more valuable, the training of the young people within our schools.

The loss to a community by substituting a weaker for a stronger teacher cannot easily be computed. Parents who have experienced it will say that the experiment is expensive and that the loss should be avoided wherever possible. If, in a spirit of those advocating economy, it is not prevented, it may prove to be costly and extravagant. The buying of good teaching service at the figure the market demands is often less expensive than the buying of inferior service at bargain rates. This applies to commodities used in school work as well as to the teaching service. That school system which retains the interest of pupils and gives valued service through its teaching force, may prove more economical than a system costing less per pupil but unable to hold the pupil's interest and give mediocre service through a less efficient teaching staff. It is not the high cost of schools we are so much concerned with as to beware of the high cost of cheap schools by cutting corners on false economy moves.

I dedicate this report solely to the opening of the new building. I have purposely omitted all personal references, not because none are merited, but because the advent of a new educational shrine outweighs all other educational events of the year. May we all be in accord on the ideal of placing and keeping education on a lofty pedestal in Sunapee.

Respectfully submitted,

TRUE C. MORRILL,

Superintendent of Schools.
